

We were commissioned by Derby NHS Hospital Trust to design, fabricate and install a landmark pedestal clock as part of their £334 million development. With care at the heart of the NHS and our own closeness to the history of Derby, we created a clock that symbolised both aspects.

Florence Nightingale is famous worldwide as the "Lady with the Lamp". She is also famous in Derby after her correspondence with Dr William Ogle of Derbyshire Royal Infirmary in 1860, when it was rebuilt along the lines suggested by her to reduce mortality rates.

Our dedicated team designed a contemporary pedestal clock, creating a 7m column with 3m sculpture in stainless steel, with LED illumination to bring the feature to life. The lighting effect represents the cycles of change and renewal that are all part of life.
